Explanatory Memorandum

Part I - Preliminary

Clause 1 sets out the short title.

Clause 2 provides the interpretation section for the Act. Agency means the National Intelligence and Security Agency. Other important terms such as entities in the security sector, Minister, national intelligence estimates, national security interest, national security threat and a public body are also defined.

Part II - National Intelligence and Security Agency

Clause 3 provides for the establishment of the body known as the National Intelligence and Security Agency as an Agency which shall further enhance the State's defence and security policy.

Clause 4 provides the functions of the Agency. The functions include collecting information of national intelligence and security that will provide a basis for decision making and preventive action and conducting analysis of the information, providing intelligence and security advice to the President, Cabinet and, on the President's direction where necessary, Ministers and entities in the security sector and other national stakeholders.

The functions of the Agency shall be exercisable in the interest of national intelligence and security regarding foreign policy, threats from espionage and protection from undermining of democracy and State institutions.

Clause 5 provides for the President to give general and special directions to the Agency. It provides that the President may, after consultation with the Minister or any other person the President considers appropriate, give directions to the Director of a general or specific character regarding policy to be followed by the Agency and the Director shall give effect to those directions.

Part III - Administration of the Agency

Clause 6 provides for a Director of the Agency. The President shall appoint a Director to head the Agency. The Director shall have the authority, direction and control over the Agency subject only to the President. The Director's official standing shall be equivalent to a position not less than a Chief-of-Staff or Commissioner of Police. The Director shall, subject to the requirement of legal advice, be the Principal adviser to the President on matters relating to the provisions of this Act.

Clause 7 provides for a Deputy Director of the Agency. The Deputy Director appointed by the President shall assist the Director in the discharge of the functions of the Agency and may act for the Director during the absence or incapacity of the Director.

Clause 8 provides for the qualifications of the Director and Deputy Directory. The qualifications of the Director and Deputy Director shall be a minimum of a first degree (or of an equivalent level) from a recognised university in the field or related field of intelligence, counter intelligence, security and defence or strategic studies.

Clause 9 provides for the terms and conditions of appointment of the Director and Deputy Director. The appointments of the Director and Deputy Director shall be for a period of not less than three years and not more than five years as determined by the President. It also provides for their renumeration and other terms and conditions of appointment.

Clause 10 provides for the removal of the Director and Deputy Director from office. The President may remove the Director or Deputy Director from office on any of several grounds, but before removal there must be a hearing. The grounds for removal include misconduct, abuse of the powers of office and failure to discharge the functions of office.

Clause 11 provides for the resignation of the Director and Deputy Director and the filling of a vacancy in any of the two offices. The Director or Deputy Director may at any time resign his office by notification in writing addressed to the President.

Clause 12 provides for the appointment of Assistant Directors. The Agency may comprise Assistant Directors to head departments dealing with matters falling under this Act. Assistant Directors shall be appointed by the Director after the Director recommends to the President that there is need for Assistant Directors and the President approves of the persons to be appointed.

Clause 13 provides for officers and employees of the Agency. The Director may employ such number of officers and employees for the Agency as are necessary for the discharge of the functions of the Agency. The Agency may include officers in active duty duly transferred or seconded for duty with the Agency from entities in the security sector. Officers and other employees shall be persons of integrity and confidentiality who shall be remunerated as determined by the Director in consultation with the President or a person designated by the President.

Clause 14 deals with superannuation benefits.

Clause 15 provides for the obligation to observe secrecy. Every person having a duty in the administration of this Act shall regard and deal with as secret and confidential all information relating to the functions of the Agency, and if at any time such person communicated or attempted to communicate any such information to any person other than in pursuance of, for instance, the discharge of a function under this Act, a Court order or the investigation of a crime, the person commits an offence and is liable on conviction on indictment to a fine of five million dollars and to imprisonment for five years.

Clause 16 provides for the oath of office and secrecy to be taken and subscribed by anyone before entering upon any duties of office in the Agency.

Clause 17 provides for the funds of the Agency. The Agency shall be funded by a direct charge on the Consolidated Fund. The budget of the Agency shall be presented to the National Assembly as part of the national budget by the Minister of Finance. Funds of the Agency shall also include any grants, gifts, donations or other endowments given to the Agency which have been approved by the President. The funds shall be applied to meet the expenses of the Agency including remuneration of employees.

Clause 18 provides for the accounts of the Agency to be audited by the Auditor General annually.

Clause 19 sets out the 1st January to 31st December as the financial year.

Part IV - Operational Powers of the Agency

Clause 20 provides for the operational powers of the Director. The Director shall have full operational powers including power to organise, approve and supervise all activities and direct analytical and technical cooperation and external operations.

Clause 21 provides for officers of the Agency in the discharge of their functions to have powers of police and officers of the defence force.

Clause 22 provides for undercover intelligence support. The Agency has power to provide the use of undercover intelligence support for its operations.

Clause 23 provides the interception of communications. In the discharge of its functions the Agency shall have the power to intercept communications within the meaning of and in the manner provided in the Interception of Communications Act, Cap. 47:03.

Clause 24 provides for the provision of information by public bodies to the Agency on request by the Director notwithstanding the Access to information Act 2011 or any other law.

Clause 25 provides that for the purposes of the Access to Information Act 2011 the Agency shall not be regarded as a public authority.

Clause 26 provides for the Agency to be kept informed by entities in the security sector with all relevant and timely information and intelligence relating to national security interest.

Clause 27 provides for other entities in the security sector whose mandates require the conduct of intelligence gathering operations to consult with the Agency for the purpose of coordinating the intelligence programmes and operations of those entities.

Clause 28 provides for mutual cooperation between the Agency and other entities in the security sector. They shall mutually cooperate and assist one another in performing their duties regarding intelligence gathering and national security.

Clause 29 provides for the Agency to have power, subject to approval by the President, to engage, communicate and operate with foreign agencies to achieve a particular objective in the interest of national intelligence and security.

Clause 30 provides for intelligence support to law enforcement agencies, other entities in the security sector or other national stakeholders in the prevention or detection of crime. Request for support shall be made to the Director in writing. In a justifiable case, the Director shall approve of the request and render the support.

Clause 31 provides for the Agency to make use of its operational tools and methods in order to provide protection for institutions and facilities of Guyana but the Agency shall not provide physical protection for such institutions and events.

Clause 32 provides for officers of the Agency to be sent to embassies abroad. The Director with the approval of the President may assign officers of the Agency to serve as liaison officers to embassies abroad, when necessary for the fulfilment of the responsibilities of the Agency pursuant to this Act.

Clause 33 provides for the protection of officers. The Agency shall take all necessary action to ensure the safety and security of the officers of the Agency in the performance of their duties.

Clause 34 provides for the issue arms and ammunitions to the Agency. The Minister shall with the approval of the President issue arms and ammunition to the Agency. Arms may only be used and discharged in necessary defence.

Clause 35 provides for security of intelligence. The Director shall be responsible for the efficiency of the Agency, shall ensure that security measures are in place to protect information and that measures are implemented to prevent unauthorised interference with the information system.

Clause 36 provides for the Director to have the power to delegate the exercise of any function conferred upon the Director under this Act to any officer of the Agency.

Part V - Complaints

Clause 37 provides for complaints. It provides that a complaint may be made to the Director in relation to any aspect of the operation of the Agency. The complaint may be dealt with by the Director or in view of its complexity referred to the President. The President may deal with the complaint to finality or refer it to the Intelligence and Security Committee.

Clause 38 establishes the Intelligence and Security Committee which shall consist of three members appointed by the President. The members shall be one person nominated by the President, one person nominated by the leader of the main opposition party in the National Assembly after consultation with the other opposition parties in the National Assembly and one person nominated by organisations representing civil society.

Clause 39 sets out the functions of the Committee. The Committee shall review the referred matter and express its opinion on any question and make recommendations to the President.

Part VI - Miscellaneous

Clause 40 provides for the offence of obstruction of or interference with officers of the Agency in the discharge of their functions. A person who commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine of 2 million dollars.

Clause 41 provides for immunity from suit. No civil or criminal proceedings for breach of confidentiality may be brought against any person who in good faith provided information requested by the Agency.

No suit may be brought personally against the Director or any other officer of the Agency for any lawful act done or omission made in good faith in carrying out the provisions of this Act.

Clause 42 gives power to the Minister to remove difficulties that may arise in giving effect to the provisions of this Act. Such difficulty may by order be removed by the Minister after consultation with the President.

Clause 43 provides for the making of Regulations for the better carrying out of the provisions of this Act.

Clause 44 provides for transitional provisions. On the commencement of this Act, the Director, Deputy Director, officers and other employees of the Agency immediately before its establishment under this Act shall continue to be the Director, Deputy Director and officers and employees of the Agency appointed under this Act.

Clause 45 provides for the amendment of certain Acts. In consequence of the provisions of this Act, it is necessary to amend the Interception of Communications Act, Cap. 47.03, and the Access to Information Act 2011 in certain respects to enable the Agency to discharge certain functions.
